Lakewood Library to host free US citizenship classed for adults

TOMS RIVER – Ocean County Library's Lakewood branch, 301 Lexington Avenue., will host a free, seven-session class to prepare people who want to take the test for US citizenship.

The class is appropriate for adults 18 years and older who have lawful and continuous permanent residency in the United States for a minimum of five years. Those attending should have been physically present in the United States for thirty months, with at least three months living in the same state or district.

The class will instruct the students on all topics covered by the test for US citizenship, including civics and American history, and offer practice exercises on English reading and written vocabulary.

The test itself will not be administered as part of the class. The test for US citizenship is only administered by US Citizenship and Immigration Services.

The class will be held on Wednesdays: February 4, 11, 18, 25 and March 4, 11, 18 at 6:30 p.m. at the branch.

Registration is required because of the limited class size. Registration begins January 5.

For more information about a person's eligibility to qualify for the class or to register contact Librarian Richard Potter at (732) 363-1435 ext. 2117 or rpotter@theoceancountylibrary.org .
